

Prepare For Graduate Study In Psychology

Please join us for two events that will help you learn more about graduate studies in psychology!

How Can I Get Into Graduate School In Psychology?

Thursday, November 10th, 12:30pm to 2pm (5117 James Hall)

Find out how to make yourself a highly competitive candidate for graduate school acceptance. Brooklyn College faculty and current graduate students will discuss how you can best prepare for graduate study in psychology. Learn what steps you can take while completing your undergraduate studies to increase your chances of acceptance to PhD programs in the various sub-disciplines of psychology (e.g., Clinical, Cognitive, Developmental, Educational/School, Health, Industrial/Organizational, Neuroscience, and Social/Personality Psychology). Ample time will be provided for question and answer.

Graduate Programs in Clinical Psychology

Thursday, November 17th, 12:30pm to 1:30pm (5117 James Hall)

Join Professor Rona Miles to learn about the various graduate programs in the field of Clinical Psychology. Programs to be discussed include PhD and PsyD programs in Clinical Psychology, Social Work (MSW), Mental Health Counseling (MHC) and other types of graduate programs with clinical relevance.

Reserve your space in either or both of these sessions by signing up online at:
<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/Fall2016PsychEvents>